Point of departure: Quality Teaching and Teacher Support – two Sides of the same Coin

In the first two decades of the Bologna Process students and institutions were the main focus of efforts to create a European Higher Education Area (EHEA). But quality teaching is not possible without highly qualified and motivated teachers.

The trend to casualization and precarization of academic work throughout the EHEA undermines continuity and quality of teaching and research – and ultimately on studying and learning.

Furthermore there is a lack of social dialogue between the social partners in higher education, particularly on national level.
Rome Ministerial Conference 2020

• 10th follow-up conference after the Bologna Ministerial Conference 1999
• Virtual meeting on 19 November 2020 after having postponed twice
• Ministers and other representatives from 49 countries, the European Commission and 8 consultative members
• Rome Communiqué with three annexes
  • Annex I: Statement on Academic Freedom
  • Annex II: Principles and Guidelines to Strengthen the Social Dimension of Higher Education in the EHEA
  • Annex III: Recommendations to National Authorities for the Enhancement of Higher Education Learning and Teaching in the EHEA
Rome Ministerial Communiqué (1/3): Visions

“(…) we commit to building an inclusive, innovative and interconnected EHEA by 2030, able to underpin a sustainable, cohesive and peaceful Europe:

• Inclusive, because every learner will have equitable access to higher education and will be fully supported in completing their studies and training;

• Innovative, because it will introduce new and better aligned learning, teaching and assessment methods and practices, closely linked to research;

• Interconnected, because our shared frameworks and tools will continue to facilitate and enhance international cooperation and reform, exchange of knowledge and mobility of staff and students.”
Rome Ministerial Communiqué (2/3): Fundamental values

• ETUCE: Quality teaching requires the freedom of teaching and discussion, freedom in carrying out research, disseminating and publishing its results, the freedom to express freely opinions about the institution and system in which academics work.

• Fundamental values in the EHEA according to the Rome Communiqué:
  • Institutional autonomy
  • Academic freedom and integrity
  • Participation of students and staff in higher education governance
  • Public responsibility for and of higher education
Rome ministerial Communiqué (3/3): Teacher Support

• Increased support for teaching and non-teaching staff
• Academic staff, including junior academics require
  • stable employment and career opportunities,
  • parity of esteem for teaching and research,
  • attractive working conditions,
  • access to up-to-date staff development.
• Digital technologies, skills and competences for all
Annex III: Recommendations for the Enhancement of Learning and Teaching

1. Make student-centred learning a reality
   • Structured dialogue involving students, teachers and stakeholders

2. Foster continuous enhancement of teaching
   • (Inter-institutional) continuous professional development
   • Framework with decent working conditions, manageable teaching workload, attractive tenure opportunities
   • Parity of esteem for teaching and research

3. Strengthen higher education institutions’ and systems’ capacity to enhance learning and teaching
   • National higher education strategies as a basis for a structured and continuous dialogue with higher education institutions and other stakeholders
   • Appropriate and stable funding and resources
Conclusions

ETUCE calls on ministers in charge of higher education
• protect and promote academic freedom
• to increase teacher support,
• to foster social dialogue both on EHEA and national as well as regional (e. g. Central-Asian) level,
• to improve working conditions and career paths for higher education teachers: permanent jobs for permanent tasks, job security, reliable career paths, a supportive working environment and appropriate continuous professional development.
